As you know I recently attended an English language course in a nearby college for about a month. I can definitively say that I enjoyed that experience. After a brief discussion with others who had also attended the course I believe they found it pleasurable as well. The classes we took were very good in terms of quality. ^{In fact,} Our teachers' pronunciation was better than I had expected. There were many students from different countries, which was fairly interesting. The classes weren't too large, which allowed the teachers to focus on a smaller amount of students. Each classroom ^{was} equipped with had plenty of new equipment, which was of a higher quality than in our school. It wasn't all great though. The teachers would assign ^{40a} much homework, which demotivated many of us. ^{Unfortunately} There also weren't many social activities. I would recommend the course for most students, especially those who aren't worried about the social aspects.
